

Fully Funded Teacher Subject Specialist Training

Campus Stockton Teaching Alliance

MODERN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Do you want to improve your MFL subject knowledge?

New cohort starting December 2016

As part of a national initiative, Campus Stockton Teaching Alliance is offering non-specialist teachers the opportunity to upskill their ability to teach MFL.

This is an ideal opportunity for MFL departments to develop their capacity for teaching GCSE MFL by training other subject specialist teachers to teach French, Spanish and German.

The course is suitable for teachers from other subject areas who have experience in a language. The course is also suitable for qualified teachers who are returning to the profession after a break.

The course will be led by MFL specialists in partnership with online support from Newcastle University and the Association for Language Learning.

Professional accreditation and a bursary for schools is available.

All training is free to schools and participants.
